DAYLILIES (HEMEROGALLIS)

THE FLOWER SUPREME—They are fast becoming an essential part of all flower gardens. Regardless of extreme weather conditions, they continue to grow and display their beautiful flowers.

CULTURE OF DAYLILIES

TIME TO PLANT. Daylilies may be planted during the spring, summer and fall. Local conditions will govern the best time for planting, which should be done at a time when the plants will be able to establish themselves and begin prompt growth. Fall planting should be early enough to permit the plants to become well established before cold weather. Daylily roots are packed damp and should not be allowed to dry out.

PLANTING. In planting, spread the roots naturally and cover about two inches with pulverized soil. The exact depth will depend on the size and type of the plant, but it is usually easy to tell from the color of the leaves the depth at which the plant has been growing. Too deep planting is injurious. Firm the soil so that roots and crown are in good contact with the soil. Water after planting if the ground is dry.

We reserve the right to fall ship any variety we happen to be short on.

A SELECTED LIST OF TALL BEARDED IRIS

CULTURE

Tall Bearded Iris will give excellent results in any fertile soil with reasonable drainage and exposure to sunlight. Whether the soil is neutral, slightly acid or calcareous makes little or no difference. Plants should be set out so that the rootstock (rhizome) is barely underground. If soil is dry when planting is done a thorough soaking is beneficial but after the plants become established they require very little moisture after blooming. When the plants become too crowded or decrease in their flowering, division is likely necessary. Bearded iris will grow but not bloom properly in a shaded location.

(Shipment of Iris starts July 1)

Name of variety is followed by the name of the originator and the year of introduction. Season of bloom is indicated by the initials E-M-L signifying early, mid-season, or late. Height is given in inches.

SPURIA IRIS

The Spurias, sometimes called "Butterfly Iris", resemble the Dutch irises which are extensively used by florists, but the flowers are large, and numerous blossoms, are borne on the three to four foot stalks, making a very showy display in the garden, and are superb as cut flowers, as they are not as fragile as the bearded iris and keep for days. The color range is wide, ranging from near white and creamy-yellow to a deep golden yellow, and from lovely old-gold shades down to a deep golden brown. There are lavender-blues and true blues and a mixed planting is indeed a very beautiful sight. The browns are quite new and unusually interesting.

Spurias require very little care, and can be left in a permanent location, so should be given room in which to grow. They thrive in full sun or partial shade, and do best if kept well watered in the early spring and throughout the blooming season.

Keep very moist until established. Perfectly hardy, they are very worthwhile additions to an garden. Spurias bloom at the same times as the late flowering bearded iris.

Spurias will be shipped only in the fall at the proper planting time. In planting them be sure to cover rhizomes three to four inches.

HOSTAS OR PLANTAIN LILIES

If you have a shady spot under trees that seems devoid of interest, then by all means try some of these interesting plants for they are at their best grown in such a location where their large sturdy leaves seem almost tropical in growth and very decorative. The racemes of bell like flowers of lilac, blue lavender, and white rise well above the foliage.
